

PennHIP Training Course Registration Form

Western Veterinary Conference

Las Vegas, Nevada - February 18, 2012

A PennHIP training course will be offered in conjunction with the Western Veterinary Conference on February 18, 2012. The course consists of 7 hours of lecture covering the current understanding of canine hip dysplasia with specific emphasis on the science to support the PennHIP radiographic procedure. Ample opportunity will be provided for hands-on practice of the technique through the use of bone and simulated mechanical models. Attendees will receive 6 hours of continuing education credit. Technicians are welcome to accompany a veterinarian, for a reduced fee. Coffee breaks and lunch will be included. Registrants are responsible for their own travel and lodging. Interested veterinarians can register by calling 215-573-3176 or by completing and submitting this form.

The PennHIP method of canine hip evaluation utilizes a special distraction device and depends on precise positioning of the patient to obtain diagnostic radiographs. Only "certified" PennHIP members can take and submit radiographs for official analysis. Certified members have successfully completed quality assurance exercises at their respective practices to ensure consistency and accuracy in performing the PennHIP radiographic technique. A distraction device is required to perform PennHIP radiography and can be purchased through PennHIP. A one-time reading fee is charged for the quality assurance exercises (see fee schedule below). Although these fees are optional, we suggest that registrants pay for them with registration so that the distractor will be delivered to the course and certification exercises may be started immediately upon return to your clinic.

*If you have a question about registration fees, equipment, or certification fees, please feel free to contact us at 215-573-3176 or pennhipinfo@pennhip.org
